

Lucas Appeals For U.S. Action In Coal Crisis

Asks Miners To Return To 5-Day Week

Washington, Jan. 6 — (AP)—Senator Lucas of Illinois, President Truman's own leader in the Senate, today appealed to the White House for action to end what he termed a serious coal crisis.

His action came after republican congressmen complained that the administration was withholding action while people were in danger of freezing.

John L. Lewis, whose order for a three-day week in the mines led to the coal shortages, meantime faced a mounting pile of lawsuits.

Lucas announced that he had called on John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, and told him he should "lose no time in laying all the facts at his command before the president of the United States." This Steelman agreed to do.

Lucas also appealed to the miners and Lewis to reach an agreement restoring the five-day week. He said that unless they did so he would "take the floor of the United States Senate and protest as vigorously as I know how the continuation of these conditions."

Lewis decreed the three-day week in an effort to get a new contract calling for higher pay and more royalties for the miners' welfare fund.

Lewis, who with his United Mine Workers has paid out $2,130,000 for contempt of court in the past two years, was confronted with these new legal actions today:

1. Coal operators filed suit in Columbus, Ohio for $8,872,000 damages, which they claim resulted from last year's stoppages. The nine large mine firms also asked for an injunction to prevent the miners from obeying Lewis' three-day week order which they claimed was a violation of the state's anti-trust laws.

2. The National Labor Relations Board asked the federal circuit court of appeals here to enforce a board order prohibiting the UMW chief from seeking an illegal union stop contract.

Lewis had no comment on these moves.

Senator Lucas, in his statement, indicated a belief that the counsel of the National Labor Relations Board may be able to go into court and "asked for relief" from the three-day week without using the national emergency section of the Taft-Hartley act.

President Truman, a critic of the act, has so far refrained from invoking the emergency clause although the Interstate Commerce Commission has already taken emergency action to curtail railroad passenger service to conserve fuel.

Seek To Find If Woman Killed By Doctor Was Dying

Manchester, N.H., Jan. 6—(AP)—The woman of the "mercy" death—was she dying?

That was the question being considered today—unofficially—as the central figure of the case, Dr. Herman N. Sander, 40, was in seclusion after pleading innocent to murder.

The victim was Mrs. Abbie Borotto, 59. Dr. Sander was indicted for injecting air into her veins "xxx" well knowing the said air injections to be sufficient to cause death.

Early in the case, County Solicitor William H. Craig quoted Dr. Sander as saying he knew the injection would be fatal and did it as "an act of mercy." The patient had cancer and her death "might have been a matter of a few hours," Craig quoted Dr. Sander as saying.

But today official sources would not comment on the point of whether or not Mrs. Borotto was dying at the time the air was injected.

The question was raised, however, in published reports in some newspapers. They presented the view that whether the woman was dying would be a major issue in the doctor's defense.

The 19-year-old daughter of the victim, Elsie, told newsmen: "It was a well known fact that my mother was dying."

American Ship Sails For Shanghai Today

Aboard American Freighter Flying Arrow Saturday, Jan. 7—(AP)—This 14,000-ton cargo ship sailed shortly after midnight this morning for Red Shanghai, whose waters the Chinese Nationalists claim to have mined.

The voyage of about 800 miles normally would require about three days for a freighter.

The Flying Arrow carried cargo worth $10,000,000, U.S. 12 passengers and a crew of 43.

Eleven American members of the crew were permitted to sign off in Hong Kong, being replaced by British and other foreign sailors. The passengers included two British women.

The voyage of the Flying Arrow has been a subject of debate since the Nationalists announced they had mined Shanghai's approaches.

The U.S. state department gave special permission for signing-off any crew members who did not want to run the risk.

"We are not bluffing when we say the approaches to Shanghai have been mined," a Nationalist navy spokesman told the Associated Press on Formosa.

"It is quite possible a ship might reach Shanghai without striking a mine, but there is no guarantee of that."

In New York, the Isbrandtsen company, operator of the Flying Arrow and other ships that have defied the Nationalist blockade, announced it has petitioned Congress to investigate the detention of two of its vessels and the shelling of two others.

There was much speculation—but no official comment—in the Nationalist capital over whether Britain would send minesweepers to clear the Shanghai approaches now that Britain had recognized the Red regime.

UAW Watchman Admits Story Of Abduction Is Hoax

Detroit, Jan. 6—(AP)—Inspector Joseph Krug said a night watchman who found a dynamite charge at the CIO United Automobile Workers international headquarters admitted tonight that his story of an abduction was a hoax.

The watchman, William Thomas, 58, broke down after nearly 13 hours of constant grilling by police and the FBI.

Thomas said he had been "working extra hard" at the UAW headquarters and was in a "bad mental state" following exposure of the dynamite attempt last Dec. 20. Krug quoted Thomas as saying "I wanted to commit suicide but I couldn't go through with it."

Thomas insisted that he knew nothing of the attempted assassinations of UAW President Walter P. Reuther and his brother, Victor, also a UAW official.

"I wanted to kill myself because people were saying behind my back that I set the bomb," Krug quoted the watchman as saying.

"I'm in a bad mental state. I have been working extra hard and I haven't had any sleep."

Krug said Thomas "most certainly" would be questioned about the dynamite attempt and also in the Reuther shootings.

There was no immediate comment from UAW officials on the latest development in the case.

Thomas story got snarled in the clothing store which, he insisted, his kidnappers attempted to choke him.

Lt. Hugh Burke handed him a rope similar to the one tied around his neck when he staggered to the gate of the Henry Ford estate at Southfield and Fairlane, in suburban Dearborn, at 8:30 a.m. today.

Thomas made a peculiar knot in it similar to the one found in the "torture" rope.

Confronted with it, the quiet-spoken janitor broke down.

All senior nationalist officials were mum or chary in comment, but they evinced the sinking feeling that Taipei—their fifth capital in less than nine months—would be their last unless they alone could hold Formosa against the eventual Red onslaught.

British recognition of the communists and American declaration of a hands-off policy towards Formosa created an obvious feeling of abandonment and loneliness among the die-hard loyal to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Desperately they determined to continue the fight alone from this island redoubt. They have no alternative.

President Truman's statement of no military aid in holding Formosa was a heavier blow. False hopes of assistance had been puffed up tremendously in recent weeks, only to burst.

Taipei, Formosa, Jan. 6—(AP)—The Chinese Nationalists quaffed the bitter tea of disillusion tonight.

Sets Goal Of 64 Million Jobs By 1955

Washington, Jan. 6 — (AP) President Truman told congress today the nation's current prosperity can be expanded to provide a $1,000-per-family rise in income within the next five years.

This, if attained, would put the income of the average family above $5,000 a year—a figure which used to be considered the mark of a "successful" man.

Keyed with that shining prospect, the president set a five-year goal of 64,000,000 jobs, a $300,000,000,000 annual output, and looked forward to the eventual "elimination of poverty."

Employment in 1949 averaged 58,700,000 million; and production was about $250,000,000,000.

Mr. Truman gave his views on the nation's future in his annual economic report to congress—a message glowing with confidence.

But his words failed to impress his republican critics on Capitol Hill. They said the White House is operating a "promise market" and declared that if the present "socialistic" trend continues the promises will be paid off in 50 cent dollars.

On the other hand, democrats applauded the presidential aims.

Mr. Truman wrote: "Our economic situation today is good, and it can be better. The lessons of the past and the magnificent challenge of the future continue to spur us on."

He told the lawmakers that the nation's economy has surged strongly to "firmer ground" after the mid-year dip in 1949, and now it remains only to "tap the dynamic forces of expansion."

Specifically, he stated two requests to those in his state-of-the-union message of Wednesday: stand by powers to control credit, which he indicated is too relaxed, and more liberal terms on loans to small business.

Now, he said, the postwar threat of inflation is just about over; but he warned congress:

"In earlier economic reports, I emphasized the danger of permitting inflationary pressures to continue, and urged measures to hold them in check."

"Most of those measures were not adopted, and the break in the economic boom, against which I warned, came to pass. Six months ago, the mid-year economic report pointed out the way to recovery. Additional steps should now be taken to complete the process of recovery."

"We must not again make the mistake of failing to adopt affirmative policies necessary for continued economic stability and growth."

As in his state of the union address, Mr. Truman again called for an increase in taxes, but he said it would not be severe.

THE REQUIREMENT FOR PEACE

Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations, did not underestimate the situation when he said there could be no stable peace until there is agreement for control of the atomic bomb.

Once the nations have controlled the bomb, they can go on to controlling other armaments.

But there will be no agreement of any kind unless it carries the assurance of efficient inspections. That is the only way that suspicion can be removed.

Had there been inspections to carry out the naval limitation agreements between the First and Second World wars, Japan would not have built its super battleships and established bases on islands that were supposed to be unfortified.

The trouble today is that Russia fears any inspection machinery would be used for the advantage of the democracies; that is, it would overlook infractions on the democratic side while clamping down on those on the Communist side.

It certainly isn't too much to hope that some agency can be found that will overcome this suspicion. If this proves impossible, there won't be much point in maintaining the United Nations except as a continuing debating society.

COMMUNICATION

Jacksonville Journal Courier
South West Street
Jacksonville, Ill.

Dear Sirs:

Some time ago the city fathers purchased a carload of rock salt for use in lieu of cinchers on sidewalks and street intersections through the city during periods when a blanket of snow and or ice covered the countryside.

The cold snap with its attendant deposit of ice during the past few days brings home the fact, or should do so, that someone bought the proverbial "bill of goods."

Salt was spread over the streets in strips that are of insufficient width to accommodate the wheel tread of even the smallest passenger cars in use in our city. Furthermore, the salt did not succeed in dissipating the layer of ice, as we had been led to expect. As a matter of fact, the intersections treated with salt were perhaps sicker on the morning of January 5 than they would have been if left untreated.

When ice forms on the city streets, as we are supposed to wait until the weather warms up enough for this high-priced "protection" to protect or must we continue to slip and slide? Cinders, or even furnace ashes, provide traction regardless of how low a temperature prevails.

Citizens of Jacksonville will pay the cost of the above mentioned salt many times. Any chemist or automobile dealer or mechanic will confirm the statement that a mixture of salt and water is highly injurious to all metal parts of an automobile, whether the parts be painted or chromium plated. Salt water damage can be observed in varying degrees in many cities located near the ocean. Relatively new cars can be seen on which the fenders and lower body panels have been destroyed — a considerable portion of this damage being due to corrosion occasioned by salt water.

This damage "comes home" to the automobile owner in lower—much lower—trade-in allowances for damaged vehicles or in large expenditures for replacement of corroded parts.

Cinders, sand, ashes, etc., may be old fashioned but they serve their intended purpose of providing traction on slick surfaces during cold weather and do so without creating additional expense to the automobile owner.

It is to be hoped that when the above mentioned carload of salt has been disposed of it will be the last.

Yours truly,
Hugo N. Frye,
535 South Church St.

Break Up A Home—Break A Heart

By HAL BOYLE

New York—P—There is always something lost—a thing you can't go back to—when a home is broken up. And a child is as sensitive to this feeling as a grownup.

My granddaughter, Nina, felt that way the other morning as she watched the first home of her life—she's only two-and-a-half years old—come apart under her eyes. It was the day she was to sail for Italy with her parents, George and Helen Palmer, a young newspaper couple.

Nina was told weeks ago of the trip. To her Italy was just a name that meant going somewhere. But she was excited.

"We're going to Hitalie, Zona," she told her baby sister, Zona, who has just taken her first steps. "Going to Hitalie!"

She grew even more excited as the household belongings were packed. "We're going to Hitalie! We're going to Hitalie!" she chanted.

But by sailing day her enthusiasm had waned. There was a look of finality about the apartment she didn't like—the boxed books, the walls bare of pictures, the toys put away. I disturbed her.

When the man came to carry away the last trunk in the living room, Nina tried to stop him by sitting on it.

"Nina wanna sit here," she pleaded. "Nina wanna sit here."

She was very thoughtful on the way to the ship—the Vulcania. There was a small bon voyage party in the Palmers' stateroom, but Nina didn't take part in it. She wandered about, unasily inspecting her new surroundings.

Then she demanded sternly: "Where big boat? Show Nina big boat."

Everyone laughed at that. She didn't realize that she was already on the big boat. So I wrapped her up warm in a pet blanket she calls it "Lubby," and carried her out on deck. I pointed out the ferryboats crossing the river, and explained that very soon the big boat she was on would pull out and sail away, too.

She thought this over for some time in silence. Going to Italy, she was beginning to understand, was quite a different thing from going uptown to a department store.

Soon after that all visitors had to leave. As each member of the party left, saying goodbye, Nina grew more and more restless.

Frances and I were the last to go. Nina gave us each a kiss—peck on the cheek. Then she made up her mind the whole deal was off—and she and her baby sister had better get off the boat fast.

"Nina take Zona home now," she announced to her mother. "Nina take Zona home."

"But don't you want to go to Italy?"

Nina's face puckered in tears: "No wanna go Hitalie! No want big boat! Nina wanna go home! Take Nina home!"

And suddenly all of us were crying together, crying for the lost fun she had in the home behind—how wonderful, but the home behind—for Nina the only home she had known—had been wonderful, too.

And Baby Zona looked up and wondered if all grownups were altogether mad, standing there crying when they could just as well sit down on the floor, put their toes in the mouth and really enjoy life.

ASSAILS BRITISH MOVE

Taipei, Formosa, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Chinese Nationalist Foreign Minister George Yeh announced the rupture of diplomatic relations with Great Britain tonight in a bitter statement assailing the British position.

Yeh, who served in the Chinese ministry of information in London during the war, said the British step comprised "every traditional step of warm in a pet blanket she calls it 'Lubby,' and carried her out on British people."

Tender roast leg of lamb is no longer just a springtime treat. Today it's the attractive and delicious roast that may be enjoyed throughout the entire year along with the numerous other popular lamb cuts.

There are two types of leg of lamb from which to choose—the French style leg with the meat removed from the end of the shank bone and the American style with the shank bone removed and the meat tucked back under the fell and pinned in place. The American style makes a compact roast while the French style makes an exceptionally attractive cut for centering the dinner table.

To fit the needs of a smaller family, the homemaker may ask the meat dealer to remove the sirloin chops from the roast. These chops make a delicious separate meal when broiled.

In preparing either style leg of lamb, the fell—the thin papery covering—should not be removed. This covering aids in holding the shape of the leg and in keeping the rich meat juices inside. Only the fell on chops or steaks should be removed.

Before placing it in the oven, the meat is seasoned with salt and pepper, then laid flat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. Do not add water and do not cover. A meat thermometer is valuable in determining the correct degree of doneness. It is inserted in the thickest part of the uncooked meat so that the bulb does not rest in fat or on bone.

Slow cooking is an important part of roasting as it means juicier and tenderer meat with less meat shrinkage and less oven watching. For leg of lamb the oven regulator should be set at 300° F., allowing from 30 to 35 minutes per pound. The thermometer will register 175° F. to 180° F. when the leg is thoroughly cooked. For easier carving, remove the roast from the oven around 20 to 30 minutes before mealtime and allow it to stand in a warm place.

BELIEVING that tomorrow's farmer should do more button-pushing and less back-bending, Johnny Clive Williams, 16, Lafayette, Ala., farm boy, is being hailed by his neighbors as something of a combination of Burbank and Edison. From odds and ends, Johnny has built many electric labor and time saving devices which greatly facilitate work on the farm, and in addition, helped him take top honors in a 4-H club electric methods contest.

Johnny lifts the electric hot plate heating unit which is fastened to the lid of an old lard can to serve as an ideal electric chick brooder. A small, attached thermostat regulates the heat.

Rev. Heuston Addresses BPWC Club Thursday

Rev. Leslie G. Heuston, pastor of Central Christian church, was guest speaker at the meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club Thursday evening at the Dunlap hotel. "Ideas Whose Times Have Come" was his topic.

Quoting Victor Hugo, Rev. Heuston said "There is no army strong enough to stop any idea which has found its time." He continued with the statement, "It is the verdict of history that at a certain time there are ideas which predominate and are accepted, while others pass away."

He stated and interpreted several ideas for which he maintained the time is now ripe for acceptance or at least for consideration.

This group of ideas included the recognition of the dignity of the individual; world-wide spread of human brotherhood; democracy at work around the world; international cooperation, and the hope of a better tomorrow.

The program had been arranged by Blanche Spall, chairman of the program coordination program, and Amelia DeMotte, co-chairman, and Sarajane Brown. Musical selections were sung by Mrs. Virginia Lee Cruse, soprano, accompanied by Miss Margaret Harney. Both are music majors at MacMurray college.

During the business session, it was announced by the president, Dr. Mary Louise Newman, that the National B.P.W.C. Federation would meet at the Stevens hotel in Chicago, Jan. 20-21. An outstanding feature of this meeting will be a panel discussion on the subject, "What Does the Next Half Century Hold for Women?"

Mrs. Leslie Heuston was introduced as a guest.

The supper committee for the Jan. 19 meeting will be Effie Baxter and Cornelia Lane. Francis King will be cashier.

Mrs. Brangham Tells Of Work With Crippled

"Physiotherapy," the journal of the Chartered Society of Physiotherapy in London, England, last month carried a letter by Elizabeth D. Brangham, M.C.S.P., in which she described her work as a physiotherapist for the Morgan County Association for the Crippled.

Mrs. Brangham came to this city about a year ago and since that time has been actively engaged in administering corrective treatments to crippled and handicapped children.

A native of Germany, Mrs. Brangham received her highly-specialized training at the University College hospital in London, England, and before coming to this country did extensive work in hospitals there.

Text of Letter

Her letter to the physiotherapy journal follows:

"Sir—I read with great interest your symposium on Infantile Cerebral Palsy, and I was particularly pleased to see the conclusions at which Dr. Agassiz had arrived.

"I came to the U. S. A. in February of this year (1949), knowing only that my employers were to be the 'Morgan County Association for the Crippled' and that my work would be in conjunction with school children.

"I arrived in Jacksonville, which is a small and active college town in Illinois, the Midwest, and I was soon introduced in the welfare of crippled and handicapped children. I was shown a large class room, in one of the local elementary schools (Washington school), which was equipped with a Hubbard tank and nothing else. The tank had been donated by the Jacksonville Rotarians.

First Physiotherapist

"The town had never had a physiotherapist before, and it looked to me as if I had a real pioneer job in front of me. I soon settled down to equipping the room with a massage table, screens, towels, sheets, pillows, etc. while waiting for patients to turn up. Actually, the patients were on hand though we needed a doctor's consent first to start treatments.

"This very modern elementary school had a special class room for handicapped children. The teacher (Miss Josephine Milligan), a cripple herself, having had poliomyelitis at the university, seems the most understanding and efficient person for those children. She is permanently in a wheelchair, and manages these spastics, polios, children with rheumatic hearts, with an efficiency and understanding, which is outstanding. She had been the driving force behind the employment of a physiotherapist, and I am grateful for her help and cooperation during my first few months.

Hubbard Tank Used Constantly

"About 50 per cent of my work on crippled children is on those suffering from birth injuries. Having the Hubbard tank at my disposal, I have used it constantly. An immersion in comfortably warm water helps a great deal to relax the children and enables them to move their paralyzed limbs more freely. Added to this is the psychological factor.

"With close cooperation between teacher, speech therapist, art teacher, music teacher and physiotherapist, the children have made considerable progress, even in the short time that I have been here. This is to my mind an ideal set up for treatment.

Elizabeth D. Brangham, M.C.S.P."

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

SAND WITCHES of the early 1950s and the present demonstrate what's been coming off in the last 50 years. Both these beach costumes produced plenty of talk-taking. The Junior Mother Hubbard outfit at left was considered really daring in its day. Why, my dear! In Victoria's time, NO decent woman would appear on a public beach with such bare arms. And as for that SKIRT that displays the er-r-r LIMBS in such brazen fashion—well, I NEVER! Of course, no one wants to be catty, but you can't wear a skirt that's more than two petticoats under it. And probably flimsy cotton instead of respectable flannel. And furthermore—oh! land's-sakes—amighty! What's that over at the right? That's a 1950-style swim suit! Wow! Where do we go from here?

New York Stock Market

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Highly selective buying kept the stock market on an even keel today.

By and large the market did not get very far one way or the other. Gains showed an edge over losses but there was not enough driving power in either direction to force a decisive movement. Changes ranged to a point or so.

Business started off with a rush, slowed down for a while, and then swung into a steady gain that lifted total sales close to 2,000,000 shares.

Yesterday sales piled up to 2,550,000 shares, tops for more than a year, but prices scarcely budged.

The president's economic message to the Congress had little, if any, effect on the market's trend. A very slight upward slant developed as the report was being read but it was questionable whether it was caused by the president's commendations.

Higher prices were paid for Admiral Corp., Emerson Radio, Philco, Radio Corp., Zenith, Motorola, Schenley, Montgomery Ward, Federated Department Stores, Consolidated Vultee, Boeing, Goodrich, Northwestern Telegraph, Interna-

File Charges Of Manslaughter In Pittsfield Case

Pittsfield—Charles Rowling, 28, of Jerseyville, driver of a truck that figured in a collision Tuesday night in which two University of Denver students were killed, was charged with manslaughter in each death and also charged with driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, Sheriff Clifford Windsor said Thursday.

Rowling waived preliminary hearing when arraigned before Justice of the Peace O. D. Gickert and was bound over to the action of the April term of the Pike county grand jury. He was unable to furnish bond totaling $11,000 on the three charges and is being held in the Pike county jail.

John Nunn and Alex Pickholtz, both of New York City, are students who were killed in the accident, while two companions were injured and are in Illinois hospital here. The students were en route to school after spending the holidays in their homes.

Coroner Walter Plattner postponed the inquest into the two deaths until next Wednesday. The coroner said he changed the date to enable the two injured students to testify.

FEED GRAINS ARE LOWER IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Feed grains slipped gently downward in a slow market on the Board of Trade today. Wheat eased early and then recouped most of its losses.

A slight upturn in receipts of cash corn and oats led to mild selling pressure in these cereals. Support entered wheat on news of fairly large grants to European nations for purchase of American grain.

Both soybeans and lard developed a slightly easier trend. Profit-taking following the recent substantial advance was the chief factor in lard.

Receipts were: wheat 8 cars, corn 64, oats 17, barley 6, and soybeans 4. Wheat closed 1/4 higher, March $2.18 1/2, corn was 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, March 74 1/2, rye was unchanged to 1/4 lower, May $1.44, soybeans were 1/4 to 1 cent higher, March $2.33 1/2, and lard was unchanged to 8 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Wreck Victim's Father Sues For $16,000 Damages

W. L. Clemmons, as administrator of the estate of his daughter, the late Billie Clemmons, has filed suit against Marion E. Hoffman, asking damages of $15,000 for the 17 year old girl's death from automobile accident injuries here on the night of Aug. 14, 1949.

The complaint filed in circuit court charges that Hoffman operated his automobile in "wilful, wanton and reckless manner," causing it to overturn at West Morton and Lincoln avenues. The Clemmons girl was a passenger in the rear seat. She died of injuries Aug. 24.

Clemmons also is plaintiff in a suit filed against the State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company, which issued a policy to Hoffman to cover passengers in his car, according to the complaint. Clemmons as administrator asks $1,000 from the insurance company to defray medical and funeral expenses.

The administrator is represented in both suits by Edward J. Flynn and William P. Zachary, attorneys.

Jacks Start Slow, Warm Up In Second Half To Regain Jug

It took Jacksonville two quarters to show them out front 23-20 at half-time. Nick Carter's athletes started biting the dust with too many personal fouls as the second half got underway. The veteran Beardstown mentor saw three Tigers foul out early in the third period and another trio batted from fourth quarter action. Two other Beardstown cagers collected four personal fouls as officials called a total of 40 personal fouls against Beardstown.

Two Crimson basketballers, Bill Williams and Harvey Myers, collected four fouls each. Jacksonville was charged with 22 personal fouls.

Free throws kept the Crimson in the ball game through the first half. Leading 23-20 going into the second round, Harvey Myers paced the Jacks to an 11-point scoring barrage that threw them out front 34-20 before Beardstown could score. They were never bothered by the visitors after that surge and coasted in to their ninth victory of the year as stacked against two defeats.

47-36 In Third Quarter
Beardstown hit with some long one-handed shots but still trailed 47-36 at the end of the third quarter. Crimsons fought into a 63-46 advantage at the final horn to claim the striped jug which Beardstown has held for the past two years.

The local quintet showed the packed house a different brand of basketball last night. Myers and Gotchall scored 12 points each with 9 short one-handed shots and tip-ins.

1. Ron Kemp and Ike Wright, guards, tallied 13 and 10 counters each by driving through the leaky Beardstown defense. The locals abandoned their usual long-shot game.

2. Bob Kraushaar's Crimson B squad experienced little difficulty in bumping off the Beardstown reserves 58-42 to make it a clean sweep for Jacksonville.

Hogan Does Well On Ist 9 But Gets Tired On Back 9

Los Angeles, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Golf's mechanical man came back into the championship picture today, a little rusty and a little cruddy.

The little man was Ben Hogan, launching a comeback in top flight competition in the $15,000 Los Angeles open, and he was good enough to make a fight all the way through to a long first round of 18 holes at the Riviera Country Club.

He had par whipped in a miraculous exhibition for nine holes, but he tried on the final nine and wound up with a creditable 73, two shots over par and five strokes back of the pace setter.

The leader after this first round was dark horse Ed Furgol of Royal Oaks, Mich., with a three under par 68 and a performance that in other years would have set the galleries buzzing.

But Furgol and the entire remainder were unknown players today.

Ben Hogan, nearly killed in an auto-bus crash 11 months ago, had come back to golf.

No one in the gallery seemed to care what national open champion Cary Middlecoff did, although he wound up tied at 73 with Hogan.

Jimmy Demaret, Jimmy Turnesa and several others.

Sam Snead was ignored as he toured around in 71 strokes, the same as Bob Hamilton, Otto Greinert, Jim Ferrier and other familiar names of the touring pros.

This was Hogan's day on Hogan's course—the same Riviera where he won the national open in 1948, where he scored two of his three triumphs in this richest of the winter golf tournaments.

Hogan wasn't quite the same Hogan. His iron cracked like a rifle in the sunshine. He appeared the same cool Hogan as ever. But he was off on the greens.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Two gunmen robbed Richard Gawron, 24, of 30 bags of money while he was parking his car on the south side tonight.

What they didn't know was that Gawron is a collector for a vending machine company. And what they probably have learned by now is that the bags contained 2,500 coins — all pennies.

Tigers Fight Off Last Quarter Rally For Two-Point Victory

After holding a comfortable half-time lead Spike Wilson's I.S.D. quintet had to fight off a determined Franklin rally in the late minutes of play to come up with a 38-36 victory on the westend boards last night.

With Leo Ceci splitting the cords for 17 points, the Wilsonmen moved out front 11-8 in the first quarter and held a 23-16 advantage at half-time.

Fighting superior height in the Franklin five, the westenders still managed to use their big floor to advantage and were ahead 32-26 going into the final lap.

Big Bill Rawlings 6-2 Franklin center started shoving them through in the final period and almost upset the apparent before I.S.D. stalled their way to victory with a two point lead.

Irvin Carlstedt, plucky Tiger center, fouled out in the fourth quarter and his going almost spelled disaster for Coach Wilson's athletes. Hocking had four personal fouls against Franklin.

Alta Hood, I.S.D. forward, re-injured a football knee last night and may not see action against White Hall in the 7:15 p.m. fracas at the westend gym tonight. The Tigers play the preliminary to the Illinois college-Lake Forest CCI tangle which is set for 9:30.

Repair Auditorium After 16 Years

Whittier, Calif. (AP)—More than 16 years after the disastrous Southern California earthquake of 1933, this city is getting around to repairing its high school auditorium. The quake damaged roof supports and beams and the building was abandoned. It has been forbidden territory for students ever since. The city once decided to remodel it, then learned a larger building was needed because of an increase in the number of students. Now workmen are ripping off the roof. Using the original walls they will convert it, at a cost of $381,000 into a classroom and library building.

CONCORD

Concord—The Concord-Jersey College P.T.A. will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday, Jan. 6, at 7:30 p.m. at the Concord grade school. A program has been planned with a social hour to follow. Those attending are asked to bring sandwiches and cookies. New Year's Day dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Harmon were Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Sanderson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wells and daughter, Peggy, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hynes and sons, Eddie and Walter, and Mrs. Minnie Wells. Mr. and Mrs. William B. Onken and daughter, Cynthia Beth, have returned to their home in Milwaukee, Wis. After spending the holidays with their parents and visiting friends and relatives. Mrs. Ellen Brockhouse has been ill since Christmas Day and is being cared for at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Velva Beddingfield. Several Concord residents drove to Versailles the past week and viewed the unusual Christmas scenes depicting the Nativity, the shepherds and their sheep, and Santa Claus and his sleigh. All were well lighted and approximately 700 colored lights were used at the Tarrant Funeral Home. Mr. Tarrant is already planning a larger and more effective scene for next Christmas.

PATTERSON

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Shive and daughter, Donna, spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Kemp at Roodhouse. Noble Wilkinson of Keyes, Okla., arrived Wednesday for a visit with his mother, Mrs. Sarah Wilkinson, and other relatives. Mrs. Wilkinson, who has been ill, is not improved. Mrs. Amanda Brown, aged resident of Patterson, and Mrs. Cora Moore of Drake are both very ill.

WHY BURN BRUSH? Davis, Calif. (AP)—Worthless brushland ought to be burned over in this state for a number of reasons, says Dr. George H. Hart of the College of Agriculture here. California's growing population makes it necessary to use more land, he says, and livestock feed increases after burning brush whether the land is seeded or not.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has developed a frozen-lemon puree useful for pies, cakes and sherberts.

I Love My Doctor

By Evelyn Barkins
Copyright by Evelyn Barkins, Inc.
Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: John and I eloped and he opened his doctor's office in two of the four rooms of our apartment. We waited and finally got our first patient and then some others. During this time we had many adjustments to make in our individual lives.

GRADUALLY, however, we settled down into a kind of compromise routine. This ultimate harmony, with both sides wiggling like cornered worms, was comparatively easy to achieve in view of our mutual excitement and preoccupation with the panorama of medical practice and daily living unfolding before our eyes. There was actually almost a physical lack of time in which to develop these many minor disagreements into major warfare. A good screwdriver and a lot of work to do, combined with the economic struggle for existence, will often delay that first, inevitable misunderstanding indefinitely, although not, as John and I soon discovered, forever.

Before our private Battle of the Bulge took place, though, there were those terrific doctor-marriage hurdles to overcome next. Besides these, the previous adjustments as to toothpaste caps and misplaced bills became as insignificant as mosquitoes on the Empire State Building.

"Isn't it just too, too thrilling to be married to a doctor?" is a common question symbolizing one of the most universal delusions of this century. As far as I can see, there is nothing thrilling about being on call 24 hours out of 24, getting up in the middle of the night because someone else isn't asleep, answering to the description of devil or deity, depending upon the gossiping patient's point of view, and the current state of his indignation.

Then there are these chosen people who, while conceding the romanticism of John's calling, like to say sympathetically: "You must be terribly jealous to have to let your husband go off alone to see beautiful women in bed, even if they are sick."

A DOCTOR'S wife is often in the same category as a civil servant and a political bigwig. She is supposed to render prompt and efficient service to the community by locating, answering, and delivering professional messages; while at the same time she is expected to smile ingratiatingly at all possible voters, chuck babies appreciatively under the chins, and spread good will in the immediate vicinity like a visiting brush salesman.

She must also be immune to surprise. After once coming home to find John practicing on a piece of raw meat with his short wave electrocautery, in anticipation of a patient who was due in the office to have her moles removed by this bloodless weapon, I qualified.

But after three months of tactful diplomatic maneuvering with our neighbors, I told John: "I'll sweep your floors, answer your phone, but I give up on being the contact man for your organization. From now on, I'm going to smile only when I please, and if Mrs. Fitzpatrick wants me to admire her Herman, I'll use my water pistol first!"

Another complicating factor in a doctor's marriage is that sooner or later his wife discovers being married to a physician is almost like living with an Indo-Chinese being of all the language difficulty encountered. Medical vocabulary notoriously makes archaic Greek sound like first-grade English. Whenever I listened to John and his colleagues discuss a case, it was like taking a lesson in double talk.

"Why don't you simply say gall-bladder operation instead of cholecystectomy?" I asked John one night, after he interpreted the word at my request.

"Because that's not the medical term," he replied righteously.

"Bosh," I answered indignantly. "You doctors just like to sound important. It's almost as bad as a secret code. Besides, it confuses patients and frightens them, like Latin writing on a prescription that makes ordinary aspirin read like doomday."

"Look who's talking," laughed John. "What about you lawyers? You take 1000 words to say 'Fifty dollars, please,' and twist the English language by some hocus pocus so that it sounds like an exercise in irregular French verbs. At least we doctors put in bona fide substitutes."

HAVING been uncovered in my glass house by John's denunciation of legal talk, and knowing full well the improbability of my ever converting the medical profession to good sense, I set out to learn their code.

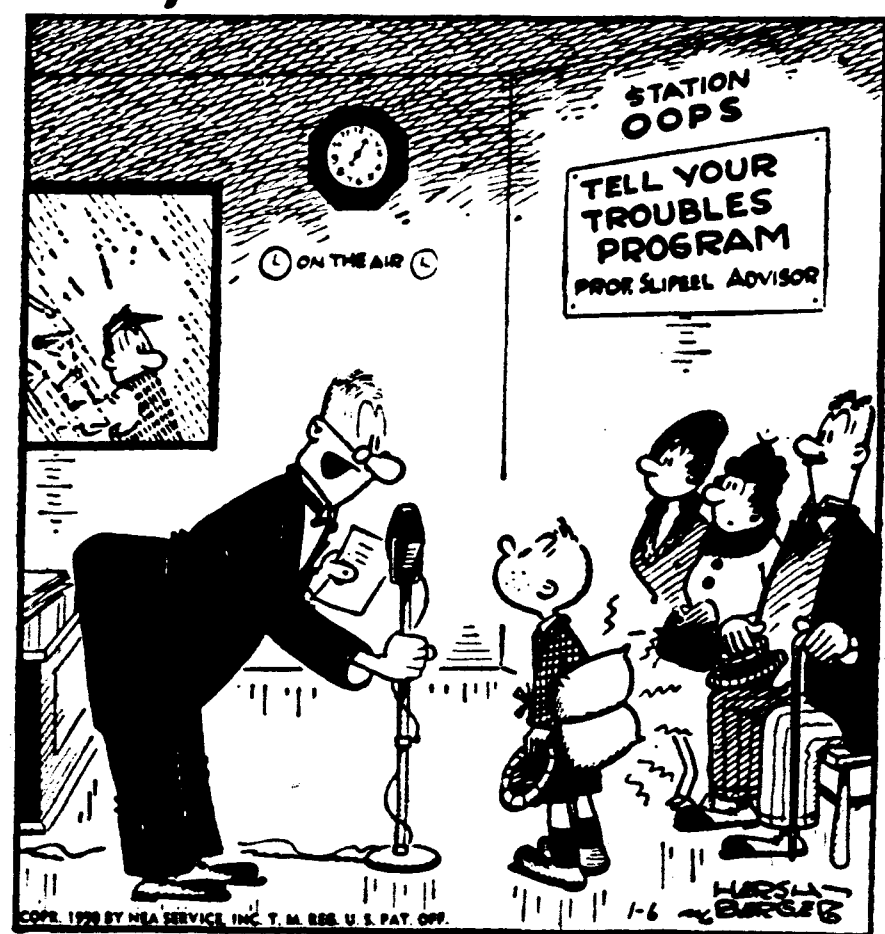

In the first excitement at my progress, John exhibited my repertoire wherever we went. Even after the first flush wore off, his Pygmalion pleasure in my new accomplishment never failed. At his insistence, I went to medical conferences, hospital staff rooms, and all professional meetings with him, until gradually, as if to compensate for the grueling grind and imprisonment of practical doctoring, a whole new world appeared before my eyes.

Where were the lofty, scientific discussions, the perplexing diagnoses, the most recent advances in medicine?

Imagine my surprise to discover that these oracular staff-room discussions always included a good, new place to eat: "The lobster was incredible!" a wonderful play they had seen: "Best show on Broadway," a detailed account of the new revue at a local night club: "Man! Can she swing it!" and the intimate, intricate histories as to the inner workings, costs, and general performances of their most recent automobiles. When they finally got down to trading actual cases, it was never done in the Hippocratic manner of furthering science, but always and strictly in the spirit of "Who caught the biggest fish?"

Foster is held in the county jail in $10,000 bond on one auto theft charge and each of three robbery counts. Lehman is under the same bond for two robbery charges and the auto theft accusation.

"I went around the corner and tore off a two-foot length of wood from a picket fence to scare him," said Scheib. "I didn't intend to kill him. He started after me with the wrench again, and as I swung with my hand to avoid him, the board flew out and the nails scratched my skin. He fell and I drove away in my cab. Then I went home and told my mother. Later I was arrested."

A witness, Cab Driver James Welsh, testified he saw Brooks wielding the wrench.

Lion Bites Off Chin Of Trainer

Rome, Jan. 6 —(AP)—Hundreds of children gaped when the daring animal trainer pried open the mouth of Salda, the circus lioness, and thrust his head inside.

Then, suddenly, Salda snapped her powerful jaws, biting off the trainer's nose and most of his chin.

While spectators screamed, attendants beat off the beast and dragged out the trainer—Oscar Konyet, an American. His condition was described as grave.

Republican Club Hears Travel Talk By Dr. Applebee

The Young Republicans of Morgan county heard an interesting address by Dr. A. B. Applebee on his recent trip abroad at their dinner meeting Friday at 6:30 p.m. at the Dunlap hotel. The speaker was introduced by Dale Rose, program chairman.

Ralph Bourn, president, was in charge of the meeting and delivered a message of thanks from Major Henri Serrais for Christmas baskets donated by the group. A paper was read by H. L. Mayberry concerning a meeting of Young Republicans to be held in Chicago Jan. 8.

Dr. Applebee told of entering Prague, shadowed by the Iron Curtain, after he and his wife had traveled 4,236 miles across the Atlantic, and he described the feeling of animosity in that Communist-dominated country. They were glad indeed, he said, when they left Czechoslovakia and took up their agricultural tour.

His interpretation of the attitude in Germany was, "You fought us and whipped us; now feed us."
